

The Burned-Out Booked — Energy Ledger

A full calendar that quietly empties you is a rhythm problem wearing a busy costume. The ledger tells the truth.

1 · THE LEDGER

SERVICE / CLIENT TYPE	INCOME	ENERGY COST (1-10)	KEEP · REPRICE · RELEASE

Anything high-energy-cost and low-income is paying you in exhaustion. That's the row to reprice or release first.

2 · CALENDAR REDESIGN

- ☐ Block one weekday that never takes bookings — recovery is a business expense.
- ☐ Cluster same-type services on the same days (context-switching is an invisible energy tax).
- ☐ Set a hard last-appointment time and put it in your booking rules tonight.
- ☐ Raise the price of the single most draining service by enough that yes feels fair.

3 · THE BOUNDARY SCRIPT

Write the two sentences you'll use when a request breaks your new rules (late add-on, day-off booking, “quick” extra). Kind, short, final.

4 · WHAT REFILLS YOU

Three things that reliably restore you, and the day this week each one goes on the calendar — with the same weight as a paying client.

CURLS & CONTEMPLATION · MICHAEL DAVID

The full system is in the book → curlscontemplation.beauty