

The Underpriced Artist — Rate Floor Worksheet

Your hands are senior. Your prices are junior. This page closes the gap with arithmetic, not a pep talk.

1 · WHAT A SERVICE ACTUALLY COSTS YOU

LINE ITEM	PER MONTH ($)
Product, tools, kit replenishment
Chair rent / studio / travel
Insurance, licenses, education
Software, booking, card fees
The salary you intend to pay yourself
Total monthly cost of being you

2 · YOUR RATE FLOOR

Total monthly cost ÷ client-facing hours you actually book (not hours you're "available") = the hourly number below which every appointment quietly costs you money.

If your current signature-service price sits below this floor, the discomfort you feel quoting it is not fear — it's accuracy.

3 • SAY IT OUT LOUD

Write the exact sentence you will say the next time a client asks your rate. No apology clause. No “but.” Then read it aloud twice.

4 • THE 30-DAY RAISE PLAN

- ☐ Pick the one service where you are most underpriced and set its corrected price today.
- ☐ Tell your next three bookings the new rate — existing clients get one cycle of notice, not a discount.
- ☐ Track every flinch: note who said yes without blinking. (Most will.)
- ☐ On day 30, run this sheet again with real numbers.
